But in recent years this 'Old Sinking Fund of surplus revenue has nearly always been suspended, and the extra revenue has been used for current purposes. And we may put it for the moment out of our calculations, since there is no further surplus revenue to be expected at the end of 1899-1900. Last year, as will be remembered, one of the leading features of the Budget was a certain reform of the Sinking Fund. Owing to the approaching termination of some of the Annuities; and also to the reduction of interest on Consols in 1993 to 22 per cent, the amount applicable within Company's Office, 38 and 40, Queen's Road | the fixed charge to Sinking Fund purposes was becoming so large that, apart altogether from the injustice of making the texpayers of these years contribute so disproportionately to the reduction of the capital of the 1067 Debt. the Treasury was face to face with the greatest embarrassment in finding Consols in sufficient quantity, and at a sufficiently reasonable price, to redeem. The fixed charge was therefore reduced by two millions. But this action on the part of the Chancellor of the Exchequer was very widely misunderstood. White, on the one hand, he was reducing the fixed charge, and so diminishing the margin hetween it and the sum required for interest and management (this margin representing the amount applicable as Sinking Fund), on the other, he took a most important step towards maintaining this method of redeeming Debt by converting and prolonging certain of he did had better be explained, since some critics have supposed that Sir Michael Fund. ation to any Government faced with a deficit. Accordingly, he converted some of the annuities and set up new ones (lasting till 1911 and 1922), the effect being to prolong the present system of paying off capital debt, which really depends on the existence of a substantial amount of Torminable Annuities, and toroduce, pro tanto, the margin left for 'New Sinking Fund. arrangement, the annual charge of twentythree millions is, in the current financial year, appropriatedas follows :- As regards £17.184,000, it represents interest and management, and as regards £5,816,000 Sinking Fund, the former figure including the interest portion of the Terminable Anapplicable to replacement of capital, together with a 'New Sinking Fund' of

There is not, it may be said with confidence, another country in the world which, having to make an enormous increase in its expenditure for a war of the magnitude of that in which we are now engaged, would at the same time be able to devote a substantial slice of revenue to reducing its capital liabilities. Yet the British Government will be enabled, if it chooses - and it probably will choose - to do. this. The cost of raising a larger sum of capital for war pulposes can be met by diverting only a comparatively small portion of the Sinking Fund. If a million is taken, there will still be left more than three and a-half millions which are available for the same purpose; and we shall still be devoting to the redemption of Capital Debt a Sinking Fund amounting to over four and a-half millions storling. Whatever fate may have in store for us in the shape of Foreign complications, it is satisfactory to reflect that, without being obliged to inipose a single shilling of extra taxation, the Government has at its disposal this substantial reserve of revenue to be utilised if desirable. The Sinking Fund consists in reality of annual revenue ear-marked for a regular yearly diminution of our capital liabilities. But friendly letters rarely continue after a long absence. This was what actually happened. The young girl suffered cruelly. At first, she tried to excuse him. How could he, away from home, compel his parents to keep up the correspondence, as of old, merely that he might add some trifling message to what they said? Still less was he likely to write to her direct. Then, hy degrees, she suspected her excuses, began to mistrust them, and at last, had to open her eyes to the truth.

Then, poor soul, she tried to forget, and at length, thought she had done so. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condi-tion of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, prompt-ly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. HONGKONO, SATURDAY, MARCH 24, 1900.

THE year 1899 has been a remarkable one in the history of foreign commercial intercourse with China. Not only does the year beat all previous records, but the trade statistics issued by Mr F. E. Taylor, Statistical Secretary to the Chinese Imperial Maritimo Custome, show an advance for the year without precedent. The total trade was valued at Haikwan Taels, 460,533,288-a rise of Hk. Taels 91,916,805 on 1898, and more than double the figures for 1890. Several influences were at operation to bring about this encouraging result. Although the political situation was far from satisfactory, no fears of immediate disturbance were apprehended; exchange was steady, making it possible for merchants to carry on their business operations with a greater degree of certainty than has been the case since the great silver slump of 1892; the rice crop was abundant, enabling the natives to purchase more freely; the spring weather during the critical period for the silkworms was musually favourable; and with the exception of the renewal of piratical outrages in the West River district there were no local disturbances to check the even flow of trade and commerce. In his remarks on 'Foreign Trade' during the year under review, Mr Taylor writes :--

*As what was written last year concerning China's Foreign trade was criticised in well to point out that the Report dealt with the conditions and prospects of the commerce as affecting China's national interests and prosperity, and not Chinese tariff. from the point of view of individual Foreign merchant, who finds the volume of trade too restricted for the amount of competition encountered. It is true that | STEAMERS PASSED SUEZ CANAL the trade, when the possibilities are considered, is of small dimensions; but the future pected from the coming railways are calculated. The Chinese, from highest to lowest, are traders by instinct, and are prompt to take advantage of every opportunity of profit. To form an idea of what prospects are, it is fair to make a comparison with India. The areas of the two Empires are almost identical, and their products very similar. But China has a larger, a more industrious, and more intelligent population; while on the whole, the country is probably more fertile and possesses greater mineral resources. In the former country, trade is assisted by good roads, railways, and lightness or absence of taxation; in the latter, at present, it is hampered by directly opposite conditions. The result is that the Exports from India are three times the Exports from China. With equal opportunities, which the building of railways and the opening of mines will bring about, this discrepancy should disappear. The year 1899 has shown, in a striking manner, what an advance is made when circumstances are provitious. As will be shown later on, the year was favourable to Exports, and we have, as a result, to record in each direction

remarks regarding railways because it may be accepted as evidence of the fulfilment of the predictions and over and over again by those who have studied the possibilities of Chinese trade on the spot. Transit has an important bearing upon commercial development; nowhere more so than in undeveloped countries like China. Greater freedom of movement, we have contended, will effect a speedier revolution in Chinese national life than a century's Edicts from the Imperial pen. It will facilitate the rapid exchange of natural products, thereby lessening the likelihood or famine in over-populated districts; it will The E. A. Co.'s Ltd. s.s. S.S. Co.'s s.s. Carlisle City nations of the modern age. This is no fanciful picture. Mr Taylor's report amply bears out our contention. In pointing out that the value of the Exports in 1899 was more than double that of 1890, he says :---'In view of the fact that railways are now opening up districts previously cut off from communication with ports, it is fairly safe The N. P. Co.'s s.s. Breconshire sailed to predict that in less than another 10 years the trade will have again doubled. Exports are at present checked by price and inferior quality—the former due to cost of carriage and heavy taxation, the latter to adulteration or faulty methods of known in this 'Island of fragrant preparation for Foreign markets. Prices will come down when railways bring the goods more cheaply to the ports and in. The N. Y. K. s.s. Futami Maru left Nagacrease the supply. Elsewhere he writes : - The internal trade of the country was We use only the best and most unusually brisk, and the important changes | The N. Y. K. s.s. A Suggestion to Mr Dallas.

A correspondent writes to us suggest ing that the Dallas Company should stage 'The Sorrows of Satan' on Thursday next.

A Famous Singer.

It will be learned with pleasure that Mr Alec Marsh, the celebrated baritons. with the assistance of several amateurs and Mr A. G. Ward, is to give a grand evening J. von Oertzen concert, in St. George's Hall, on April 3rd. It is seldon that residents in the Far East have an opportunity of hearing a singer of such rare excellence, and full advantage will be taken of the opportunity. At the Cathedral to-morrow, Mr Marsh will sing | Sir T. Jackson. the solo, 'Why do the Nations' from the Messiah. On Monday evening Mr Marsh will be the soloist at the organ recital to be given by Mr Ward at the Cathedral. He will sing the aria, 'It is enough' from Drummond, | Elijah, and Sullivan's song, 'The Sailor's Hutton, Grave.

A Mean Trick. At the Magistracy, to-day, George Christian, private in the Royal Welch Fusiliers, was charged with robbing an American man-of-war's man of the sum of one dollar. It appeared from the evidence that defendant had spent the day drinking in company with a number of American sailors, who being a little 'flush,' were doing all the paying. The result was that they all the sailors especially, got the worse of drink, and Christian, taking advantage of this, took a dollar from among some change handed over O. & O. Co.'s s.s. Coptic, with the the bar of the Stag Hotel to one of the tars. Christian was sent to prison for seven days with hard labour.

The Dearness of Food. The very extortionate prices demanded by compradores and provision dealers has been the source, of much domestic worry for several months past, and it has been a bitter and unavailing cry as to what the Government is to do in the matter. It perfectly clear that there is some tacit understanding between shopkeepers with regard to the increase in prices, and unless the law is to protect residents from this wholosome extortion the prospects are not very hopeful for the future. Not only have prices been raised all round, but there appears to be an increasing desire amongst the compradore class to get the better of the European customers by methods which are certainly outside the pale of honesty. It is with satisfaction we

The Philippines Commission. Mr William Howard Taft, the President of the new American Commission t the Philippines, though but 43 years old, is regarded as one of the ablest jurists in the United States. He is a son of the late Alphonso Taft, who was Attorney-General and Secretary of War in President Grant's Cabinet and Minister to Austria and to Russia under President Arthur. William H. Taft was born Sept. 15th, 1857, and graduated from Yale in 1878. As second in his class he delivered the Latin oration. He studied law at the Cincinnati Law School and divided the first prize on graduation. In January, 1881, he was appointed assistant prosecuting attorney of Hamilton county, Ohio. The worthy Sir Thomas Jackson, th Chief Manager of our local Bank, objects greatly to any big public functions in his honour, but he consented to dine at the Club the other evening as the guest of Mr Fullarton Henderson, who is perhaps his oldest friend and acquaintance in the East. Hon. C. P. Chater and the Hon. Justice Wise, and about a score of Sir Thomas' old friends, were present. The dimer was purely an informal gathering, and was all the more enjoyable for that reason. After dinner, and when the toast of the Queen (God bless her ! had been enthusiastically received, Mr Henderson called upon the guests to do honour to and give a God-speed to the principal guest. Sir Thomas, he said, was well known to many of them for many years. It was nearly forty years ago, -the century was not much past middle age -when he first mot the fine slip of a boy who was even promise promise which has been so well fulfilled. Referring to the big institution which Sir Thomas had so successfully steered through fine and through foul weather, with an occasional typhoon thrown in,-with its many ramifications and branches spread pretty well all over the world, and housed with more or less palatial splendour he went on to sa that the Bank's transactions ranged from savings bank deposits to large national leans, and it had become no only a commercial but a political power in the land. The only instances in which the honour of knighthood had been conferred in China upon unofficials were Sir Thomas Sutherland and Sir Thomas Jackson, both Sir Thomases and both connected with the Bank. The speaker, in the most felicitous. manner, next touched upon the many virtues of their guest, his unostentations but widespread charity, the support he ever gave to all the healthy sports of the Colony and his identification with churches, schools benevolent societies and all similar institutions, which had always claimed his attention. After a bantering reference to the many instances in which Sir Thomas had undertaken the role of mediator and peace maker-Mr Honderson concluded by saying they were all glad their ghest was coming Tack to them, and he couldn't do better than wind up with a quotation of an old Sir Thomas, in his response to the torst, Scotch song - Better loed he canna be will ye no come back agen ?- The toast of his household was then heartily honoured. ondeavoured, as any modest Irishman would, to minimise the good and kind things which their host had said of him. Hongkong and its residents, and remarked that there were few commercial communities which had displayed more true courage in the face of adversity, and still who could have succeeded so well in facing and conquering those difficulties. for their hearty good wishes, and expressed a hope that he would see all of them on his return, or at least all who had not by that time gone back to the home country. After the health of the Chairman had been duly honoured the evening was passed pleasantly with a few songs. It may be interesting to mention that the terms of residence in the East of the twenty-four gentlemen present aggregated 684 years, thus giving an average of 28 years per man. This fact may also be of nterest to the Life Insurance Agencies in ing of the China and Manila Steamship Company, Ltd., was held, at the offices of THEATRE the Company, to day. Mr R. Shewan presided, and the others present were :--Messre N. A. Siebs, D. Gillies, and J. H. Watson and R. D. Anderson.

Lowis (consulting Committee), A. Babington, E S. Kelly, Fung Wa, Chuen, M Chairman said -- Gentlemen-With your permission, we will dispense with reading the report and accounts, copies of which have been in your hands for some time. The result of the mast year's work is eminently satisfactory, enabling us to recommend a dividend of 2,684 square feet. Term 983 years. 20% and to raise the Reserve Fund to Crown Rent. $42.96. Sold for $19,400. | $100.000. The new boat, the Diamante, has proved herself a very profitable acquisition, and fully justified the step we took in having her built. On the re-opening of the ports in the Philippines, more tonnage was wanted for Manila and for Iloilo and 1.078 square feet. Term 999 years. Cebu, and we should then have been very glad to have had another boat like the Diamante. But, as you know, and particularly at the present time, it taken many 793 square feet. Area propose have been made to her, will, we are quite satisfied, give a good account of herself and still stand in our books at a moderate price say but little over $200,000. She is an old boat, of course, and will, -House at Back of No. 2, D'Aguilar therefore, cost a good deal more for repairs and upkeep than a new one like the Diamente, and, for that reason slone, we would have much preferred to have built a new steamer at even double the cost, but time pressed and we had to do the best we could in your interests. We have seen no reason; so far, to repent of the stop, but I mention this as I don't want you to think we are in favor of buying old boats. On the contrary, your true policy is to discard your old vessels, and, like our enemies in the present war, equip yourselves with only the latest and most up to date material. We have to contend, now, not only with the former old boats on the Australian Line but with some of the newest and finest steamers recently built at home for that trade, and, unless you are prepared to look this competition squarely in the face, you may prepare to go to the walk. The purchase of the Menmuir has, of course. thrown us into debt again, but, we have not asked for further Capital on her account, as she has only been acquired as a temporary measure and must, a oner or later, be replaced by a newer and more 751 square feet. Subject to Proportion suitable boat from home, for which, of course, fresh capital will be required. As to the future of the trade I have little fear. The present result has been obtained during a year when the Hemp and Sugar Ports were closed to the export of cargo, so that we may reasonably expect an augmentation in our earnings when the carriage of those commodities, and other produce from the Islands, is resumed. Not only that, we all know that the capabilities of the Philippines have never yet been prowhich is not in the habit of sitting still perly tested, but we also know that the country is now in the hands of a nation and doing nothing, and we may rest assured that, having got hold of a good thing, that nation will make the most of it, and, as we would do our clyes, will use every effort to develop the great natural resources of those rich and fertile islands. The result must be a vast increase in the trade with this place, and we have only to look to Java and the Straits 843 square feet. Term 999 years. At the moment, things are not quite settled down over there, but it cannot be long now before order is fully restored, and, with the roturn of the natives to their work on the plantations, we shall soon see business return to its old channels in larger volume than ever. I do not think I need detain you with any remarks upon the accounts. There are no 'unusual items 'except, perhaps, the loss on investments sold to pay for the Diam nte, but the loss is more apparent than real, being offset by interest, and the difference between buying cum and selling ex div. If you have any questions to ask me, I shall be happy to hear them, before I move the adoption of the Report and Accounts. There being no questions, the Chairman, seconded by Mr Gillies, moved that the report and accounts for 1899, as presented,
